The Rutgers Writing Program Presents

Successful Science & Technical Writing, Effective Research, and Winning Grant Proposals

Join us for an informative Master Class led by nationally preeminent New Jersey researcher, physician, and educator Dr. Al Tallia of Robert Wood Johnson Medical School. Learn the fundamentals of exceptional research and grant proposals that get your work noticed.

Thursday, March 12
4:00 – 5:30 pm
Plangere Writing Center
Murray Hall, Room 302
College Avenue Campus
Reception to Follow

Dr. Alfred Tallia is Professor and Chair of Family Medicine and Community Health at Robert Wood Johnson Medical School. A University Master Educator, Dr. Tallia conceptualized and led the development of Robert Wood Johnson Partners®, an accountable care organization that now serves as a national model for aligning academic health sciences centers with community resources.

Sponsored by the Department of English and Rutgers Writing Program. For more information about or other Rutgers Writing Program events, please visit http://wp.rutgers.edu or call (848) 932-5787.